Summary of Code Violations

Companies that join the FLA agree to uphold the FLA Workplace Code of Conduct throughout their entire supply chain. The Code of Conduct is based on International Labour Organization (ILO) standards, and defines labor standards that aim to achieve decent and humane working conditions.

While it is important to note when violations of the FLA Workplace Code of Conduct occur, the purpose of these assessments is not simply to test compliance against a particular benchmark, but rather to develop an understanding of where and how improvements can be made to achieve sustainable compliance. Code of Conduct violations can be found throughout the course of an assessment of the employment and management functions, and are addressed in companies’ action plans.

COMPANY ACTION PLANS

Action Plan no 1.

Description
There was an initial conversation with the factory to address this finding. It is apparent they do not have a policy in place. While remediation for this finding has not started I am developing a list of questions to begin the process of developing a policy and procedure to address the findings.

Action Plan no 2.

Description
The factory is creating new policies and procedures for points 1, 2 and 3 of this finding. We have been working with the factory to assist with any questions or concerns they may have. I would estimate these policies can be completed within 6 months. We plan to review their progress in person in August and will continue to assist via conference call weekly.
During our last call the factory confirmed they will be removing the age range that was previously included in their position postings. Evidence will be provided at completion.

Company Action Plan Update

8.2 The factory has provided us with a draft for their promotion procedure but have requested more time to incorporate additional points to offer their employees a clear process and to create an evaluation process.

FINDING NO.7

IMMEDIATE ACTION REQUIRED

FINDING TYPE: Compensation

Finding Explanation

1. The factory performs two bank deposits into employee accounts every week: one for the minimum legal salary and the other for any other income earned by the employee. In total, both deposits cover their weekly salary. However, only one deposit is declared to the government. Therefore, the social security and tax calculation correspond only to the declared deposit and not the complete salary. [C.5, C.16]

2. Employees’ salaries are based on the production quota, which is not always met during the regular shift. If employees have to stay after the regular shift in order to cover the production quota, this time is not counted and paid as overtime, but as part of the production quota. This practice means that an employee must work overtime to meet a production quota in order to obtain their regular salary. If the production supervisor considers and authorizes overtime payment, they do not correspond to the worked hours, but depend on supervisor criteria. [ER.24, HOW.1, C.7]

3. The complete factory takes a two-week vacation at the end of the year. Discounting resting days and holidays, this equates to eight vacation days. Employees who have amassed more than eight days are not able to use them; they only receive the corresponding payment. [ER.22, HOW.1]

4. The time records of overtime payment are inconsistent, so the assessors were unable to determine if they are paid according to the legal requirement. [HOW.1, C.7]

5. The factory is missing the Profit-Sharing Commission of employer and employee representatives to develop the profit-sharing project. Instead, the employer directly develops the profit-sharing project. [ER.22]

Local Law or Code Requirement

Ley del Impuesto Sobre la Renta Artículo 99 Cláusulas I, II y III; Ley del Instituto Mexicano del Seguro Social Artículo 15 Cláusulas I, II, III y IV; Ley Federal del Trabajo Artículo 85; Ley Federal del Trabajo Artículo 76 y 79; Ley Federal del Trabajo Artículo 66, 67 y 68; Ley Federal del Trabajo Artículo 125 Cláusulas I, II, II and IV; FLA Workplace Code (Employment Relationship Benchmark ER.22 and ER.24; Compensation Benchmark C.5, C.7 and C.16; and Hours of Work Benchmark HOW.1).

Recommendations for Immediate Action

1. Declare employees’ complete incomes to the government and calculate the tax and social security in correspondence with their real wages.

2. Establish production quotas (based on productivity analysis), that can be achieved during the regular shift without overtime. In addition, pay overtime as required by law.

3. Ensure that all employees enjoy their corresponding vacation period (according to seniority), within six months of their anniversary date, as established by law.

4. Maintain accurate time and payment records.

5. Follow the legal requirements for the Profit-Sharing process, which includes: conforming a Profit-Sharing Commission with employees’ and employer’s representatives; providing it with annual records for developing the Profit-Sharing Project; publishing the project; and allowing employees to review it and raise concerns, questions or complaints.

Action Plan no 2.

Description
Initial discussion with the factory has been met with push back. The factory is asking for more volume to support the increase in pay and benefits. We have explained that while we understand the need for more volume in general, it should not be the driver in following local law and employee’s rights. [ER.26]
